Your Eagle home, switched on.

By the Good News Realty Group team • Last verified October 19, 2026

TL;DR

Power is Idaho Power and gas is Intermountain Gas. Eagle water comes from either the City of Eagle or Veolia depending on the subdivision, sewer is the separate Eagle Sewer District, and trash is Hardin Sanitation. File your homestead exemption with Ada County after you move in.

Your setup checklist

Work top to bottom.

ONE WEEK BEFORE CLOSING

Transfer power into your name

Call or go online with Idaho Power and give your closing date as the start date.

Transfer natural gas

Intermountain Gas starts service on the date you choose. Skip this if the home is all electric.

Start water, sewer and trash

Find who serves the address first. In Eagle that can depend on the street.

Book internet installation

Install dates often book out. Check which providers reach your address, then schedule.

Forward your mail

Set a USPS forward from your old address to start on move day.

CLOSING DAY

Confirm every account is in your name

Ask your agent to confirm the seller has stopped service on the closing date, so nothing gets shut off between you.

Ask about irrigation water

Find out if the home has irrigation water, who delivers it, and when the season runs.

FIRST 30 DAYS

File your homestead exemption

It is not automatic for a new owner. File with the county assessor once you live in the home.

Register to vote at your new address

Update your registration so your ballot comes to the new home.

Contact the school district

Call the district with your address to confirm which district serves the home and how enrollment works.

FIRST 90 DAYS

Get your Idaho driver's license

The Idaho Transportation Department says new residents have 30 days after moving here.

Title and register your vehicles

Also within 30 days, per the state. Bring your out of state title to the county motor vehicle office.

Is your home outside city limits?

A Eagle mailing address does not mean the home is inside Eagle city limits. Homes outside city limits often have different services.

- Water may come from a private well instead of a city or water company.
- Sewer may be a septic system that you own and maintain.
- Trash goes through the county or a private hauler, not the city.
- Check the county property map below to see if the home is inside city limits.

Hardin Sanitation (outside city limits, Ada County)

Required trash and recycling for homes outside city limits in Ada County. Homes inside a city use that city's hauler.

How to start: Ada County bills this service. Call Ada County Trash Billing at (208) 577-4710 to set up billing. Call Hardin for carts.

Central District Health (wells and septic, Ada County)

Septic permits and records, and well water testing guidance.

How to start: Look up your home's septic permit in the online records. Test well water through a certified lab.

Central District Health recommends testing a private well at least once a year for bacteria and nitrates.

Ada County property lookup (city limits check)

Shows whether your parcel is inside city limits, plus its tax districts.

How to start: Search your address and check the map layers.
